INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SECURITY SERVICES

COMPUTER SECURITY INVESTIGATIONS & FORENSICS

Milshield's dedication to security and integrity extends to digital networks, electronic information and communications technology. We bring the same expertise and experience to computer-based investigations and assessments that we do to more conventional physical security, integrity monitoring, compliance and investigation projects.

Our cases can include theft of trade secrets, employee disputes, workplace harassment and fraud and financial regulatory investigations. We pride ourselves on our responsiveness and cost-sensitivity, coupled with our ability to convert "tech-speak" into valuable ammunition for attorneys and in-house counsel.

Our team understands that computer forensics may be used for a variety of tasks, such as finding the "smoking gun" e-mail, proving deliberate spoliation by an opposing party, or trying to make sense of suspicious computer activity on the day a key employee departed. We specialize in focused, aggressive computer investigations into intrusions, internal misconduct, phishing scams, malicious software and other digital attacks. Our cyber investigators routinely synchronize their work with our firm's more traditional investigative resources, such as surveillance, research and interviews. This provides our clients with a formidable synergy of investigative skills that sets Milshield apart from other agencies that operate only without or within the digital arena.

MilShield recognizes that a penetration test of a computer system is only part of a larger review of an organization's security assessment. Vulnerabilities that exist in a computer system often mirror those appearing elsewhere in the business enterprise. With our unmatched expertise in physical security systems, our team can determine the sufficiency of existing systems and propose improvements at a level of detail that would exceed any other vendor.

NETWORK PENETRATION TESTING SERVICES

Individuals and businesses enjoy and rely on modern communication methods, collaboration services and benefit from new opportunities the Internet age has created. However, Cyber Crime is on the rise too and has led governments to form complete new authorities to tackle Cyber Warfare and malicious activity. We at MILSHIELD play our part in making the Internet and modern communications a more secure space.

Hackers attack both private and corporate systems on a daily basis. The attacker can be stationed anywhere in the world and needs just internet access and the appropriate tools. The threat is real and it happens thousands of times a day.

Many attacks take place undetected and result in the theft and destruction of valuable data.

The solution: Penetration Tests and Network Security Audits. MILSHIELD will, with the legal permission of the network owner, attack customer systems in the same way as a Hacker. In doing so, MILSHIELD is able to expose security holes in the system.

The benefit: The customer is made aware of the Security holes that exist and could be exploited by a hacker with malicious intent to gain unauthorized access to the customer network. In addition, MILSHIELD will prepare a plan of action and, if the customer wishes, implement the closure of these holes.
